HMH sells 6 golf clubs on behalf of Crown Golf

HMH Golf & Leisure, the golf property specialists, report the sale of a portfolio of golf courses (as shown above) on behalf of Crown Golf. The portfolio, a mix of freehold and leasehold properties, has been acquired by Get Golfing CIO.

Stephen Towers, CEO of Crown Golf said:

"The sale of these courses is the culmination of a strategic restructure, which allows us to focus investment on core sites with both golf and leisure, as well as development opportunities. We have greatly enjoyed being custodians of these Clubs, and are very pleased to have found a buyer that is committed to the game of golf and to taking the Clubs on the next stage of their golfing journey."

Ben Allen of HMH Golf and Leisure said:

"It is encouraging for the golf market to report this landmark sale, especially at times of uncertainty. This confidential disposal was brought about by our ability to match our understanding of a client's long term objectives, with our detailed knowledge of specialist purchaser requirements in this niche sector. This acquisition makes Get Golfing one of the country's leading golf operators. We wish the charity and its staff every success with these clubs and its future expansion plans."
